

Architecture at the Edge of Luxury

Commanding panoramic views across Los Angeles to the Pacific, this remarkable architectural residence defines luxury for a new era. An inspired renovation combines an appreciation for building materials, such as steel and polished concrete, with the enduring beauty of rare stones and woods to produce a singular environment: architecture at the edge of luxury.

The main living area is open, with ceilings more than 13 feet tall. Beyond, a vast terrace overlooks the Century City skyline to the ocean. The family room opens through an entire wall to the pool, spa and garden. The tiered screening room is nearby.

Each of the three main bedroom suites is private, on its own level. The master suite features a large, stone bath and walk-in closet with an adjacent gym. There is also a two bedroom and bath suite which would be perfect for guests, staff or offices.

Garages for four cars, three guest baths and two laundries complete this oasis of architectural beauty at the end of a quiet cul-de-sac in the famed Bird Streets just moments above Sunset Boulevard.
